WNTC

One of the most popular features of the Clackamas and President Bush campuses is the unique radio station, WNTC. Since its founding in November 1967 by twenty-two students, the organization has grown to over one hundred active members.

Using a career orientation, the station presented its first program in March of 1968. From its first studio in the attic of the President Building, it was moved into a group of studios in the four, behind the Crow Building and from there to its present location on the third floor over the North Hall gym.

The students are even growing and along with the growth comes the extended benefits offered to members. Amateur radio, jockey, sports and regular announcements, education, engineers and operators, along with many others, are given a chance to share and develop their abilities and learn new skills.

In growing from a small organization, with but a modest staff, to the size today, completely active and well growing staff, WNTC has truly earned its place as one of the most successful student activities in the "Tree Colleges."
